"Just Enough": Learning to Depend on God

Psalm 73:25 says, "Whom have I in heaven but you? And there is nothing on earth that I desire besides you."

Are you and I able to say the same thing as Asaph, the writer of this psalm? Does God truly eclipse everything else in our lives?

In light of our theme for the month, we explored similar questions during recent junior high devotions by asking: When it comes to something you need, would you prefer "not enough," "just enough," or "more than enough"? As expected, most students preferred "more than enough." Peas were the notable exception, and many students were more than happy to have "not enough" of those (myself included!). In general, however, having "more than enough" provides a sense of comfort, contentment, and confidence for the students especially when it came to money, number of friends, vacation time, battery life, food, and more.

Many of us would also fall into the "more than enough" category. After all, who really wants "not enough" or even "just enough" when it comes to important things?

Over a couple of days, we discussed the importance of depending on God. One day we looked at Exodus 16 and the Israelites' gathering of manna. God instructed them not to collect "more than enough", but only "just enough" for each day. Each morning required renewed dependence on God to supply their daily needs, except on the Sabbath when they were not to gather manna. When some disobeyed and collected extra, the Lord reminded them of their dependence by allowing the manna to rot and to be filled with maggots.

Another day, we examined three Old Testament feasts described in Leviticus 23 and 25: the Sabbath Day, the Sabbath Year, and the Year of Jubilee. Each included intentional times of rest when the Israelites were not to sow, plant, or reap. Once again, God was calling His people to depend on Him during these seasons of rest, even while their neighbors continued their work.

A recent devotional I read referred to this behavior as "godly detachment". Godly detachment is the quiet surrender of our grip on the things we value so that God remains our greatest desire - kind of like what Psalm 73 stated.

When we cling too tightly to outcomes, possessions, or even good desires, our hearts slowly shift from trust in God to my own control. Godly detachment teaches us to enjoy God's gifts with gratitude while trusting Him enough to release them or to do without.

Consider the widow's offering recorded in Mark 12. She placed two small copper coins into the offering which was everything she had to live on. It may not have felt particularly heroic, but it was an expression of godly detachment from earthly concerns.

In that act, she demonstrated that each day was a joint venture with God, whose storehouse is never depleted. We might worry and fret about our future, yet we must continually be reminded that everything depends on the Lord. This is not a life of apathy, neglect, or avoidance of responsibility. Rather, it is the recognition that our relationship with God is the hub around which everything else turns, and that it must remain primary over all other wants and desires.

Who gives you health? Who brings your children home safely each day? Who makes the crops grow and provides our daily bread? Who gives us work? Who surrounds us with good friends and healthy relationships? Who brings applicants to fill open positions? Who sustains this school year after year?

God does. Remember what God challenged Moses with in Numbers 11? God said, "Is the Lord's arm too short?". That truth ought to humble us, for He does not owe us any of it.

In essence, this is what "Give us this day our daily bread" is all about. The Catechism (Lord's Day 50, Q&A 125) reminds us that we ask God to provide for all our physical needs so that we may know that He alone is the source of everything good, and that neither our work and worry nor His gifts can do us any good without His blessing. God calls us to give up our trust in creatures and to place our trust in Him alone.

Live life as a joint venture with God in humble godly detachment from earthly concerns. What a way to begin 2026!

give us This Day Our Daily Bread

We have been studying the Lord's Prayer this year, and it has been such a blessing. This month our focus is on the part of the prayer that says, "Give us this day our daily bread." According to the Heidelberg Catechism, "Give us this day our daily bread" means: Do take care of all our physical needs so that we come to know that You are the only source of everything good, and that neither our work and worry nor Your gifts can do us any good without Your blessing. And so help us to give up our trust in creatures and to put trust in You alone.

When the Israelites were wandering in the wilderness, God gave manna every day—just enough for that day. He cared about the Israelites and He was faithful to provide for them what they needed each day. He also wants us to learn to depend on Him every single day for everything that we need. Look back at your life so far! Has he provided for you? That shows His faithfulness! "All I have needed, His hand hath provided." That is reason for praise, for gratitude, and complete trust!

Each January, I try to think of a word of the year. Something that I want to focus on for 365 days. I was praying about what word to choose, and "TRUST" was the word that God laid on my heart. So this year I want to remember in every situation to trust in God's plan and in His faithfulness. He has been so good to me. He has provided for me every day of my life. He knows what's best and sees the big picture, even when I can't. Whatever happens during the day, I am trying to not worry, fret, or be discouraged. I am trying to say instead, "I trust you, Jesus." God wants us to depend on Him for everything. He wants us to think of Him, talk to Him, and ask Him for help and for guidance from the moment that we wake up until we lay our heads down at night.

Think of one of your favorite people in the whole world. What if you could have that person by your side all day? My mom is in heaven now, but she was my favorite person. Just knowing her presence was near gave me so much courage and peace. Before she passed away, she and I had a conversation. I told her, "I don't know what I will do when you are gone." And she answered, "You have the Lord. He will be by you every second. He wants to help you. He wants you to talk to Him, to run to Him." Even though I can't see Him, His presence is right beside me. And what peace and courage that can give. Every day you, too, can depend on the Lord to help you through whatever you are facing—a test, if someone hurts your feelings, if you are feeling shy, or angry, or confused. While you are walking down the hall, driving in the car.... check in with Him. He is right there! The God of the whole universe—who can do anything! He is walking right beside you as your Father and your Helper!

In the Lord's prayer, it all ties together. God is our Father. No one can love like a Father loves His child. He wants us to run to Him with our worries, struggles, needs, and also with our sadness. And because He is our Father, we can trust Him. We can say to Him, "Thy will be done. Give us today our daily bread ... the things You know that we need, not just the things that we want." Our Father will carry our burdens and sadness, and He will provide what we need for each day! He is faithful!

Lamentations 3:22-34, "Because of the Lord's great love we are not consumed, for his compassions never fail. They are new every morning; great is your faithfulness. I say to myself, 'The Lord is my portion, therefore I will wait for him.'" Every day, our loving Heavenly Father gives us new mercies, new blessings. All we have needed, His hand has provided. Great is Thy Faithfulness!
